6) ☐ Other: _____.

1. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Firstly, the language, "obtainable by", within claims 1 and 5, renders the claims indefinite, because it is unclear when the claimed process or reaction is "able" to yield the claimed product and when it is not.

Secondly, within claim 2, line 2, applicants have failed to specify what there is one or more of ("... one or more selected ..."). Furthermore, it is noted that applicants have failed to refer to the diisocyanates of claim 1.

Thirdly, within claim 6, it is unclear to what extent the plasticizers are limited by "such as coal tar". It cannot be determined if the language requires the plasticizers to have the chemical composition or properties of coal tar.

2. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Applicants have failed to set forth the type of molecular weight (i.e.; weight average or number average). This information is necessary to permit one to identify the component without having to resort to undue experimentation.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person > having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zwiener et al. ('170 or '741) in view of Ooms et al. ('420).

The primary references disclose two component coating compositions comprising a prepolymer and an amine functional polyaspartate. The prepolymer has an isocyanate content of 0.5 to 30%, preferably 1 to 20%, and is produced from the reaction of a diisocyanate with a polyether polyol having a functionality of at least 2 and a molecular weight of 300 to about 8,000. See abstract; column 1, lines 45+; columns 3 and 4; and column 6, lines 29-40, within the references.

5. Though the primary references are silent regarding the use of applicants' claimed double metal cyanide catalyzed polyether polyols to produce the prepolymer, the position is taken that one of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to utilize such polyols within the coatings of the primary references, because it was known at the time of invention that the unique characteristics of such polyols (i.e.; low monol content) contributed to the formation of high quality polyurethane coatings. This position is supported by the teachings of Ooms et al. at column 1, lines 12-20.
